DIRECTORS' REPORTS

Executive Director, Mr. Lee noted that all easements today and forward will include the new forestry language that no longer requires forest stewardship plans & the revised historic building protection, limited to "anti-demolition and encouraging DHR easements for further architectural protections. He explained pertinent background information on these template changes.

Co-holding – general policy of avoiding co-holding will continue, however, participating with local governments which may need VOF technical assistance to support a fledgling or small county PDR program, including co-holding easements, will not be discouraged. Work with Shenandoah County is underway at this time.

Ms. Little reported on volunteer statistics:

- 49 active volunteers,
- donated 258.5 hours in 2012
- 147 hours are stewardship related
- 89 monitoring events.

We are in need of more volunteer stewards in the Staunton region.

Stewardship staff has been inundated with violations (minor usually) and requests for reviews and interpretations. In addition, there are many more public utility requests.

Ms. Vance reported that at least 25 new projects are being delayed because of the uncertainty of the federal tax deduction.

OIL & GAS POLICY REVIEW

Mr. Stewart reviewed staff recommendations for refinements to template mining language and special language used for potential donors retaining limited oil and gas rights. He is seeking feedback from both the company currently leasing land for oil and gas exploration on the Middle Peninsula, and also Virginia Division of Mines Minerals and Energy(DMME) staff. The language has been sent to DMME but there has been no response at this time.

Mr. Stewart pointed out that:

- The sample language for landowners requesting retained rights would not go in all VOF easements, only upon request.
- For properties proposed for easement with existing gas and oil leases (such as is the case for several of the projects from Tidewater, the company must subordinate to the easement for it to be acceptable to Board of Trustees.
- Staff recommends that because VOF's focus is on open space values on the surface of the land, that existing easements be interpreted to allow directional drilling unless the easement specifies no drilling under the property. Even then, VOF may not be able to legally enforce this restriction.
- Because of forced pooling, even where an easement prohibits oil & gas drilling on the property the landowner cannot object to directional drilling under the property with the exception of the "Tidewater" area (as defined in Code of Virginia § 62.1-195.1. F. 1.).

Mr. Atherton moved that the revised template language for mining and sample language for limited retained rights for oil and gas mining, as presented, (included with the board package) be adopted, with the understanding that like many parts of the VOF easement template, it is open to future revision. Motion seconded by Mr. Walker and passed unanimously.

Mr. Atherton moved that as a matter of policy, VOF shall not object to off-site directional drilling under the surface of property subject to VOF easements in Virginia, provided that the VOF legal staff along with Attorney General representatives, continue to feel that we are within our legal obligations under the terms of our easement(s). Motion seconded by Mr. Walker and passed unanimously.
